Mother Earth Boardgame introduction

For years, humans have been draining all of what our beautiful planet has in store. What was accumulated over millions of years, we used in a glimpse of our existence. What about the coming generation? How can we make sure we don't destroy their future?

The answer is by starting today, and educating the future leaders on how small changes can make a world of a difference if we all committed and knew how to help our planet every day we walk its surface!

Since day one, our mission has been to spark change through exciting, educational board games starting with Flags of the World, which educated families and friends about countries they never knew existed!

Then came the rest of our line of unmatched board games, nurturing that enjoyable, educational playing experience where everyone walked out of the game learning something new.

Today, we're carrying on that mission with the latest addition to our family: Mother Earth. Through an exciting view of our planet's resources, climates, and outstanding natural events, we can help people of all ages learn more about the planet we endanger every day!

Not only that, but Mother Earth teaches every player more about recycling, eco-friendly habits, and small changes that can save endangered species, help us mitigate the risk of climate change, and live a happier, healthier life on Mother Earth.
